THE APPLITION TO OSBORNE-EMPEROR WILL-IAM'S INJURED KNEE-A ROYAL FAMILY PARTY-DOM PEDRO-MR. W. H. SMITH

> RECOVERING-DUELLING AT BONN. THY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.

Copyright: 1891; By The Tribune Associa , Aug. 17 .- The building and decoration of the panqueting hall which the Queen added to Oshorne have about £15,000, and now that the structure is finished nobody knows what it is to be used for and it was scarcely worth while to expend so much money in order to provide adequate accommodation for the private theatricals which now take place at Osborne every winter. The Queen is understood to regret that work was ever sanctioned by her, but it was begun in a hurry and has considerably outgrown the EXTENT OF EMPEROR WILLIAM'S INJURY. The departure of Prince Henry for England and the to a great many exaggerations about the illness of the German Emperor. The blow he received on his knee love of perpetual motion been so great as to have aggravated the injury. The knee is now seriously inflamed and the medical advisers, whom he was persuaded to consult with the utmost difficulty, have ored lanterns. insisted on his remaining a prisoner on board the night in honor of the Emperor of Austria's birthday, poneme and another on Thursday.

THE KING OF DENMARK'S FAMILY PARTY. The King and Queen of Denmark's family party at chloss Fredensborg is to include the Emperor and Empress of Russia and family, the King of the Hellenes, Prince George of Greece, the Princess of Wales, Prin cesses Victoria and Maude, the Duchess of Cumberland, the Prince and Princess of Waldemar, and the Duke and Duchess of Fife. The Prince of Wales is expected to arrive at Fredensborg from Homburg about September and the Duke of Clarence is to be there for a few days before he goes to Germany to attend the autumn manoeuvres. The gardens and the vast park which slopes to Esrom Lake are the great attraction of Fredens-The lime avenues are unsurpassable in Europe and so are the beeches in the park and in the royal forest of Grab. In the park, close to the lake, is a picturesque chalet built a few years ago by the Empi of Russia, but which has never yet been inhabited. There is a boot-house near at hand and every fine day Emperor rows himself about the lake for an hour or two. This year His Majesty is bringing an electric hunch for water excursions. The principal diversion at Fredensborg is pursch-hunting, which means shooting from a carriage either by moonlight or just at daybreak. During the visit of the Imperial family the whole coun try will practically be garrisoned by Russian police, of whom a large number are solely employed in guarding the castle and park of Fredensborg both day and night. The watch maintained is so vigilant that the Emperor is as safe as if he were living at home in one of his own fortified castles. Copenhagen and the northern part of Denmark have been swarming with Russian functionaries during the last month. THE GRAND DUKE ALEXIS.

The Grand Duke Alexis, whose presence creates so much enthusiasm in France, bears a remarkable resemblance to his brother, the Emperor, but is considerably stouter. He looks much older than he really His manners are particularly charming, and as h entertains a strong aversion to fees of all kinds he is intensely bored by the constant demonstrations of which he is the object. To such an extent was the mobbing carried at Vichy, that he was compelled at first to swallow his one glass of water in the privacy of his hotel, but a strong hint was given to the authorities and on Saturday he was able to attend an al fresco concert in the park without molestation. The liver affection which brought him to Vichy is of the lightest character, and he is attended by Dr. Durand-Fardel, once the medical adviser of the Imperial family, who hopes to set him right in less than three

EFFECT OF THE KAISER'S DUELLING SPEECH Visitors at Bonn are, I hear, aghast at the untoward consequences of the German Emperor's duelling speech. So many barbaric encounters have taken place during the last three months, that nearly every student one comes across has his face seamed and gashed in the most unsightly manner. THE DEATH OF DEAN ELLIOT. Dean Elliot, of Bristol, died last week at the great age of ninety-one. His widow is a lady who, under the endonym "An Idle Woman," has written several pleasant, gossipy books of Continental travel. Stanbope in Trollope's "Barchester Towers" is the late Dean Elliot to the life. Strange to relate, however, Trollope never had seen the Dean when he wrote the book, and when Wilkie Collins once congratulated him on the excellent sketch of his friend he repudiated the charge with characteristic warmth.

Sir John Millais rented Stobhall House, in Perthshire, from Lord Willoughby de Eresby for the autumn partridge cover-shooting, on the stobhall estate of 7,000 acres, including 1,000 acres of woods. It is among the best in Scotland, and it is understood that it has been sublet to Sir John by Lord Wimborne, who had taken it. A CHARMING CONCERT AT SHELTER ISLAND.

From The Brooklyn Eagle. Shelter Island Heights, Aug. 15.-A remarkably fine Shelter Island Heights, Aug. 15.—A remarkably fine charity concert was given this evening at the Prospect House, under the direction of Max Spicker, the well-known Erooklyn musician. The concert was given for the benefit of the Brooklyn Home for Aged Men and The Tribune Fresh-Air Fund jointly. Both musically and socially it was the leading event of the Shelter Island season. Mr. Spicker had the co-operation of noted musical artists, all of whom gave their services for the evening, and of distinguished musical amateurs. The andience was large and enthusiastic, and encores were frequent.

HEARD-THE BOSTON BOAT BEATRIX NOT EVEN SECOND. Newport, R. I., Aug. 17 (Special).-The waves that

wet the tossing spars of Brenton's Reef Lightship to-night sing the dirge of the centreboard and of the English cutter. It is the American keel sloop, the Gioriana, that has put all of these behind her and swept over the line a mer against the vaunt d Boston centreboard Beatrix and the choicest productions of Fairlie. It was not the Gloriana's weather, but where in the world is the boat to-day that can race her in any weather? Fleetest of all craft affoat, beautiful in her supreme igliness, she, from the start to the finish, and she alone, was "ruler of the waves and their powers." The Reatrix, the only centreboarder of the 46-foot class, yard Haven, on the New-York Yacht Club cruise, sho had done wonders, and the solid men of Boston, for saking all their idols, which had follen before the Gloriana, believed that in her at last had been found a rival of the wonderful white aloop from Bristol. So the Beatrix, the last of the centreboorders, came forth battle with the Gloriana, and was besten four minutes and thirteen seconds in light airs, over smooth sens. The Boston keel-sloop Oweene showed herself better than the Beatrix, and was beaten only one minute twenty-one seconds. As to the Fife boat Barbara, she was beaten seven minutes forty-two seconds astern at the finish, and the other Fife boat, Jessica, was nowhere. Mr. Gardner, the designer, who was aboard the judges' boat, remarked at the "Well, if the wind had been strong enough the Gloriana would have beaten by half an hour. It was the annual sweepstake regatia of the Co-rinthian Yacht Club of New-York, that club which exists only for the advancement of American yachting, and has done so much to improve the type of the present American Yachts. Through good and report the members of the club have labored with patriotic zeal, bearing that most galling of all accusations, that of being unpatriotic, because they did not undone the faults of the centreboard and shut their eyes to the good qualities of the cutter, until they have reaped their reward, and the American keel sloop stands to-day alone and unapproachable. start was off the Brenton's Reef Lightship, and the course was an equilateral triangle of twenty-five miles, the first leg being dead to windward. second leg was a reach, and the third leg was intended to have been a run. The wind hauling to the reach also. It was a beautiful sunlit day. The blue waves scarcely murmured as they broke on the historic shores of Rhode Island, off which the race was sailed. The wind had been blowing lightly from the north of east in the morning, but when the yachts which had entered lay off and on the northward of the vellow hull of Brenton's Reef Lightship it died away, and then came swiftly up over the spark ling waters from southwest by south, a half a poin south. The long ocean swell was scarcely rippled and the Racing Committee decided to start the boats. yond grand and lovely Montauk "came freshing ever more and more," and the whistle of the Regatta Committee's tug gave the preparatory signal. Seven vachts started in the race, and they crossed the line in the following order: Gloriana, Beatrix, Barbara.

Sayonara, Mineola, Oweene and Jessica. The times of crossing were as follows: The Jessica, for some unaccountable reason, was handicapped forty-one seconds, time which she could ill-afford to lose. The preparatory signal was given at 12:07, and the starting signal at 12:17. The tide was the top of the flood. The yachts crossed on the starboard tack. The Sayonara and Mineola tacked first. They were followed by the Gloriana and Bentrix, and soon all the vachts were standing on the portack over toward the Narragansett shore. The Oweene had also tacked, and she stood in further than the other boats. The Mineola and Sayonara soon came on ion of the fleet. When the inshore division stood of shore again it was evident that the Beatrix would not Oweene was beating her. So they beat down to the turning buoy, where the red and white flag of the Corinthian Club was bobbing about and the hill of ng, and was busy in arranging details. Mrs. Harison personally looked after the general preparations died this morning of heart trouble. She had been ill a considerable spread of blue and sunlit water dividgrandene she swept to the mark followed at a respect

Thus to the outer mark the Gloriana beat the Oweene 29 seconds, the Beatrix 4 minutes 16 seconds, the Barbara 6 minutes 44 seconds, the Sayonara 8 minutes 20 seconds, the Mincola 13 minutes 4 seconds and the Jessica 13 minutes 12 seconds. From the first buoy to the second it was a reach and on this leg the wind began to haul a little to the westward. There is not much to tell concerning the reach on the second leg. The yachts kept the order in which they had rounded the first mark, but the Oweene did some splendid work and did as much as a yacht could do in a hopeless heart-weakening race to save herself. Charles Barr was at her helm and never a better skipper put foot on deck, unless it be his brother John, who sailed the Barbara, or, for the sake of old tradition if for nothing else, Aubrey Crocker, who sailed the Beatrix. And in justice to Aubrey Crocker, he who has sailed so many boats to victory, it should be stated that never was became a pupil of the first school for the blind a boat better sailed than the Beatrix was to-day, but the speed was not in her. The times of rounding

Gloriana 3:24:50 Sayonara
Owene 3:20:55 Mineola
Beatrix 3:28:55 Jessica Darbara 5:32:20 The Oweene was the winner on this leg, beating the Gloriana 19 seconds, the Beatrix 16 seconds, the Mineola 22 seconds, the Barbara 1 minute 3 seconds.

the Sayonara 1 minute and the Jessica 1 minute 1 reach because of hauling of the wind to westward. It should be remarked that the Gloriana carried away should be remarked that the Gloriana carried away her balleon jib-topsail on the reach from the first to the second mark, and had to set a smaller one. This with any other boat would have been a serious matter, but it was not with the Gloriana. A few sails more or fess do not seem to make any difference to her. Thus they came rushing home to Breaton's Reef, the Gloriana leading the procession, and after victoriously crossing the line furling her white wings under the shelter of Mr. Morgan's great rock-built castle in the Cove, the Beatrix found her and the crew of the contrological deserted in such a hearty manner as only defeated yachtsmen can cheer a successful yach. The summary of the race is as follows:

Thus the Gioriana beat the Oweene 1 minute 21 seconds, the Beatrix 4 minutes 13 seconds, the Beatrix 7 minutes 44 seconds, the Mineoka 13 minutes 36 seconds, the sayonara 10 minutes 58 seconds, and the Jessica 13 minutes 4 seconds.

A large number of vachts, sail and steam, came out to see the race, and the gumboat Yorktown came also. It was just as the committee boat was steaming out by Fort Duinpilugs that the sound of cannon was heard from the Yorktown, and the bine flag of Admiral Walker fluttered from her mizzen. He and the members of the Senate Committee of Inspection went aboard the gumboat, and she steamed out to see the race. The Admiral and his honorable guests were well repaid, for seldom has a prettier race been sailed off Newport.

THE CLUB FRIEND' AT THE BOSTON MUSEUM. Boston, Aug. 17 (Special).-The Eoston Museum held a large nudience to-night, when Roland Reed presented for the first time Sidney Rosenfeld's new comedy, "The Club Friend," in which he was seen as Stuyvesant Filbert, the club friend, a gentleman who possesses an earnest, sincere disposition, but is misunderstood and laughed at in his most serious movements. Mr. Reed played the part in his usual breezy manner, and there were no dull moments while he was upon the stage. He was rewarded with frequent calls before the curtain. The supporting company includes several good players. handsome costumes. The others worthy of mention Davidge and Mrs. Mary Meyers. It is the opinion of the managers present that in "The Club Friend" Mr. Reed has found another "Money-maker." Among those who saw the performance were Stuart Robson, Among william H. Crane, Thomas Qi Scabrooke, John B.

A UNIQUE BALL AT NEWPORT. MRS. J. TOWNSEND BURDEN'S GUEST'S RECEIVED

IN A FLORAL BOWER. Newport, Aug. 17 (Special).-Fairlawn, now the property and for several years the home of I. Town-Burden, and formerly the summer home of Vice-President L. P. Morton, was the scene this evening of one of the season's most enjoyable balls, given by Mrs. Burden to about 300 guests. There were present beside the usual Newport people a number of guests from other places, members of the Diplomatic Corps, Admiral Walker and officers of the White Squadron. The grounds of Fairlawn afford excellent facilities for a large gathering, as those well know who res her the festivities so often given by Mr. and Morton, and also the marriage of Miss Bennett, sister of James Gordon Bennett, which took place there. A large tent, about fifty feet square, was fitted up for a dining-room, a smaller one for a smoking room, and another for the callers. There was ample room on the lawn for these and for many more, and they proved a great convenience, as the night was warm and grounds were illuminated with colored lamps, large main hall was dressed with growing plants. tall stairways were draped with wreaths of laurel, tied with scarlet gladioli and cream-colored ribbon. The sitting-room, opening on the hallway, had be under the hands of Hodgson, a handsome conservators and formed a preity entrance to the large ball-room at the east end of the house. This room is decorated with handsome tapestries, and these were made more striking to-night by frames of bullrushes tied with cardinal colored ribbon. Panels of cut flowers stood against the woodwork around the room, completely hiding it from se panels were connected over the doors and windows with fringes of flowers, hay tree boughs and es. Large golden baskets, hung by chains, occupied the window spaces and gave a unique appearance to the hall. The doorways were encased in green and was decomted with a delicate tracing of green hues. The musicians, who were in one of the recesses golden rod and wild grasses. The reception com-which was also hung with tapestries, was similarly treated about the walls. The mantels and tables were dressed with cut flowers. Over the doors were spans of yellow sunflowers.

Mrs. Burden, assisted by her daughter, received her guests standing in a floral bower. The plazzas were transformed into fair representatives of corn and wheat fields, by artistically disposed bunches of these grains. The diving tent was treated with green plants and pines, and each of the small diving tables was enlivened with a tasteful floral centrepiece. The german was led by John C. Furman and Miss Burden. The favors were exceedingly neat and in accord with the scheme of decoration. Burd
